In Face of Government Closures, (e)merge art fair Will Not Shut Down

WHAT: (e)merge art fair will remain open during its scheduled hours despite the government shutdown and closure of some museums and public buildings. The government shutdown has already heavily impacted federal institutions and the DC metro area, but in the face of these obstacles, (e)merge will continue.

WHY: (e)merge and its cultural partners are committed to the exhibition and promotion of emerging art. (e)merge stands to offer a unique cultural experience in a city where many institutions have been forced to close their doors. Please note that (e)merge Cultural Partners the National Museum of Women in the Arts, The Phillips Collection, and the Corcoran Gallery of Art also remain open at this time.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND: Tickets to (e)merge are open to the public, available here:
<https://emergeartfair.eventbrite.com/>

WHEN: October 3-6, 2013, Open 7-11 PM Thursday, 12-7 PM Friday-Saturday, and 12-5 PM Sunday.

WHERE: Capitol Skyline Hotel, 10 "I" Street, SW, Washington D.C., 20024
